

BELOIT DISSATISFIED AT $800,000 REDUCTION GIVEN BY COUNTY BOARD

EQUALIZATION MATTER CLOSED THIS MORNING WHEN MR. TAYLOR'S RECOMMENDATION IS ADOPTED BY SUPERVISORS.

WANT RE-ASSESSMENT

Mr. Adams, Speaking As Beloit's Representative, Declares Reduction is Far Too Small and Council May Act on Special Assessment.

On the recommendation of Supervisor of Assessments F. A. Taylor and on the motion of Supervisor L. B. Gettle, chairman of the committee on equalization, the true valuation of property in the city of Beloit for the purposes of apportionment was reduced by the county board the sum of $800,000. Beloit is now equalized at $17,466,228 or an increase of $3,777,146 over the assessed valuation. The vote of the board stood 23 in favor of the reduction to 4 against. The four were Supervisors Clemetson, Rossow, Crall and Sherman.

In spite of this reduction Beloit business men are greatly dissatisfied and their representative City Attorney H. W. Adams, in addressing the board, declared that the manufacturers' stocks of the city of Beloit should be reduced to the same level as those of Janesville.

Reduce Merchants' Stocks.
The $800,000 reduction was figured as follows: $600,000 on the true value of the merchants' stocks, making them equal with the valuation of Janesville merchants' stocks; a reduction of $200,000 on the valuation of the public utility corporation, the Beloit Water, Gas and Electric Company. The property valuation was left at the $3,000,000 true value on figures as placed by Mr. Taylor. In spite of the vigorous protests made by Mr. Adams.

In answer to the question whether Beloit would not seek a re-assessment from the state tax commission, Mr. Adams said: "I cannot answer definitely to that, now. The matter will lie with the city council. However, we feel that the reduction is nowhere near what it should be in comparison with the figures for Janesville. It appears to us a rank injustice." This statement was taken to hint that re-assessment proceedings were quite probable and Mr. Adams virtually admitted that such was the case.

Taylor's Recommendation.
Under the head of unfinished business the equalization matter was brought to the attention of the board members this morning. Supervisor Bear suggested at the outset that the discussion be confined to facts and figures alone and that personalities be entirely eliminated. The chair declared that it was a good suggestion and asked the gentlemen to follow it.

Mr. Taylor was called on for any further statement and he came forward with his recommendation of a cut of $800,000 in the true valuation of the merchants' stocks and a cut of $200,000 in the public utility valuation.

"I have looked into this matter of merchants' stocks as thoroughly as possible, gentlemen," he said, "and have found that I have made no mistake in my figures. I am still firm in the contention that my figures are correct and that they show just what the case is as they stand. However, after hearing what the Beloit men said here yesterday, I have come to the conclusion that the valuation of merchants' stocks has been put too high, owing to some discrepancy in securing the figures, perhaps. I want to be fair about this and I desire to be the first man to come before this board to recommend a reduction. I am willing to give Beloit a shade of the argument in this instance and would recommend that you cut the true valuation of merchants' stock by $600,000, placing them about the same as Janesville."

Beloit Not Satisfied.
In regard to the public utility corporation in Beloit Mr. Taylor said that he had phoned to the rate commission at Madison and they had told him that the Beloit company had issued bonds to the amount of $900,000. Considering that no corporation can issue bonds above its true value, it was his opinion that $1,000,000 would be a fair estimate, and he made that recommendation further. This was a reduction of $200,000 in that case. Mr. Taylor said that the rate commission told him that $1,000,000 would be a fair valuation on the Beloit plant.

Supervisor Gettle then introduced the resolution embodying Mr. Taylor's recommendations and spoke to the board urging them to make the promised reduction.

But Beloit was not satisfied with this. At least they were not if Mr. Adams' heated remarks could be taken as any criterion. He launched into a long argument after Mr. Gettle had finished and finally ended by saying that Beloit manufacturers should not be assessed any higher than Janesville manufacturers. He charged that Mr. Taylor had used different methods in ascertaining the true valuations between the two cities. Mr. Taylor interrupted to say that such was not the case.

Adams Continues.
Mr. Adams, however, persisted and declared that the tax commission's figures secured by Mr. Taylor as a basis were misleading. He asserted that he had been assured by the tax commission that they had only taken the Janesville totals, and that these Mr. Adams declared, included real estate and much property outside of the state which could not be report was made and adopted. Orders were issued to the board to cover the six days with one allowance for mileage. Some discussion on the matter of appropriation of money to cover an excessive expense for state aid bridges in Johnson and Plymouth was ended when the board passed resolutions reimbursing the townships. The board adjourned at three o'clock.

ASK FOR REDUCTION IN EXPRESS RATES

State Railroad Commission Petitions That Northern Part of State Receive Equal Favor With South.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 20.—In order that the northern two-thirds of the state of Wisconsin may enjoy the reduced express rates given to the southern one-third in a recent decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Wisconsin Railroad commission has presented a petition to the commission at Washington asking for further reductions.

For nearly two years there has been pending before the Wisconsin commission a complaint for lower express rates in this state. The Wisconsin commission wrote its decision nearly eighteen months ago, but about the time it intended announcing it, word was received from the Interstate Commerce Commission that they had proposed to make a new schedule of rates for the entire country. This announcement delayed the state decision.

In view of a decision by Federal Judge Walter H. Sanborn of St. Paul, which prohibits any state rates from unduly interfering with any interstate rates, the Wisconsin commission was obliged to withhold its decision on the state rates.

When the Interstate Commerce Commission made its decision last September, the Wisconsin territory was divided into two zones. The lower one-third of the state was included in the Chicago group, and the rates for this territory are considered extremely low. In the northern two-thirds of the state, however, which is included in the Minneapolis group, the rates were lowered, but are considerably higher than those in the lower one-third of the state. Halford Erickson of the Wisconsin commission immediately brought the matter before the Interstate Commerce Commission asking that these two-thirds of Wisconsin be included in the Chicago zone. The reduction for this territory are from 10 to 20 per cent lower than the old rates. As soon as this matter is decided by the federal commission, the decision in the Wisconsin express rate case will be announced here.

THIRD TIME ADAGE TRUE FOR MARRIAGE

Two Appleton Young People, Under Age, Have Difficulty Getting Knot Tied But Persistency Wins.

Appleton, Nov. 20.—That love laughs at locksmiths, parents, county officials and others and that the third time is charmed, has been proven again by Raymond E. Coon, aged 19, and Ida Lafond, aged 17, who were united in marriage by Martin VanDenBerg, marrying justice at Menominee, Mich., on Monday the third time they had gone to the Michigan gretna green in as many days.

Friday, Nov. 15, they went Menominee the first time bent on getting married. On account of the tender age of the bride they were refused a license. They returned to Appleton that night and went to the home of the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lafond and asked for their written consent which was finally given.

On Saturday they returned to the Michigan city secured a license, but was met with another difficulty when everyone refused to perform the marriage without the presence of one of their parents or the young people. Again they returned to Appleton and when love would not be denied the father of the girl, Michael Lafond, consented to make the trip with them on Monday. He accompanied the couple to Menominee, signed the necessary papers, witnessed the ceremony and then came back to this city with them.

CLERK MURDERS WIFE AND CHILD; KILLS SELF

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 20.—John Wood, a grocer's clerk, killed his wife, his four months old baby, and himself with chloroform during the night. A note found by his 13-year-old daughter, Gladys, when she awoke today, told of the crime.

MANY ARRESTED FOR USE OF MAILS FOR ILLEGAL PRACTICES

Concerted Raid Made by Government Officers Against Persons Accused of Promoting Criminal Medical Practices.

Washington, Nov. 20.—Acting under direction of Postmaster General Hitchcock, postoffice inspectors and United States marshals in seventy-two leading cities of the country began today practically simultaneous raids for the arrest of 173 persons charged with using the mails to promote criminal medical practices or the sale of drugs and instruments used for illegal purposes.

The arrests are made for misuse of the mails. Each case is based on the use of the mails to solicit business or dispose of wares. This concerted official action covers the United States from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the lakes to the gulf. Many of the persons thus arrested are prominent commercially and socially in their communities.

Some are leading physicians. Others are rich and influential business men, yet others are men who live by their wits and are comparatively little known without their own small coterie of associates, and one is a Chinaman, who is alleged to have practiced his calling upon women of his own race and upon those of the lower strata of society.

All of the arrests are to be made for alleged violation of section 211 of the penal code of the United States, which bars from the mails any vile or obscene matter whether sealed or unsealed, any advertisement, letter or circular, proposing or suggesting criminal practices, or any package containing any substance, drug or thing intended to be used for immoral or unlawful purposes.

Indianapolis, Nov. 20.—Two men and a woman were arrested here today by the federal authorities charged with sending through the mails matter describing the illegal use of drugs and mechanical devices.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Ten arrests were made here today by postal inspectors in a nationwide movement against doctors and persons advertising methods conducive to race suicide.

Evening Milwaukee, Nov. 20.—Charged with violation of the postal laws, Dr. Alfred W. Travers, Dr. Thomas Bours and Miss Marianna Yahnke, owner of a private sanitarium, were arrested today by United States Marshal Well. More arrests are expected to follow.

CONFESSED TO SAVE FIANCE FROM ARREST

Miss Cecelia Farley, Tried For Murder Of Alvin Zollinger, Wished To Avoid His Implication.

Columbus, O., Nov. 20.—Prosecuting Attorney Edwin C. Turner, today began a cross examination of Miss Cecelia Farley, the state house stenographer who is on trial for first degree murder for the shooting of Alvin E. Zollinger, last spring, after the witness had testified that she did not know who pulled the trigger of the revolver which shot Zollinger. The witness emphatically denied that she had told Miss Pearl Clark, alias Mrs. Pearl Belden, a woman detective of Cleveland about her case. She declared that "not true" and had been taken from newspaper stories. Miss Farley stated that she had "confessed" at the police headquarters on the day of the tragedy for the purpose of saving her fiancée who she was told by police was believed to be implicated in the shooting.

JURY ACQUITTED EDITOR OF MURDER OF WOMAN EMPLOYEE.

Claremore, Okla., Nov. 20.—H. O. Jeffris editor of the Nowata Advertiser was acquitted today of the charge of murdering Mrs. Irene Goheen, an advertising solicitor employed by him. The jury returned the verdict of not guilty at 9:30 this morning, after deliberating since yesterday afternoon.

IS THIRD BROTHER SHOT BY POLICEMAN

Chicago Youth Killed by Officer When He Resists Arrest Comes of Troublesome Family.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Irving Farrell, 23 years old, was shot and instantly killed by Policeman John Homan while resisting arrest in the basement of the Farrell home early today. Farrell was the third of three brothers to be shot by policemen within five months and the second to be slain. His brother, Earl was shot and killed by Policeman Williams on June 23rd after he and several companions had attacked the officer. Another brother, Edward, was shot at that time, but not seriously wounded. Edward was to have been placed on trial in the criminal court today for setting fire to a newspaper wagon during the newspaper strike here.

Irving Farrell was trying to escape from Policeman Homan after it was said, he had hurled a stone through a saloon window. He quarreled with the saloon keeper over payment for drinks and after leaving the place threw the stone.

Homan witnessed the breaking of the window and went to arrest Farrell who ran and took refuge in the basement. He was followed by Homan, who arrested him and fired the fatal shot when members of the Farrell family are said to have come to the rescue of the prisoner.

NEW LICENSES FOR TESTING OF CATTLE

Livestock Board Rules That Laymen Cattle Testers Must Secure Permits After Jan. 1.

Madison, Nov. 20.—Under a recent ruling of the Wisconsin Livestock Sanitary board, all licenses of laymen cattle testers were declared null and void after Jan. 1, 1913. To be eligible to test cattle in Wisconsin after that date, new licenses must be secured, and the board has arranged to hold examinations as follows:

Nov. 25 at Milwaukee county school of agriculture, Wauwatosa; and at Winnebago county school of agriculture, Winneconne; Nov. 26 at Racine county school of agriculture, Rochester, and at the Stephenson training school, Marinette; Dec. 7 at Dunn county school of agriculture, Menominee; Dec. 9 at La Crosse county school of agriculture, La Crosse; Dec. 11 at Marathon county school of agriculture, Wausau; Dec. 13 at Ashland and Dec. 18 at Agricultural Hall, University of Wisconsin, Madison.

These examinations will be open to anyone desiring to take them, whether they now hold permits or not.

WILL SENTENCE GUN MEN NEXT TUESDAY

Judge Announces to Prisoners Today That They Will Receive Death Sentence November 26.

New York, Nov. 20.—Sentence of death of the four gun men convicted yesterday of murdering Herman Rosenthal, will be pronounced by Justice Goff, November 26. He so announced when the prisoners were arraigned before him today. After sentence is passed the men will be taken to Sing Sing where former Police Lieutenant Charles Becker is awaiting death. The pedigrees of the gun men were taken today at their arraignment. "Whitey" Hildesbue, born in Russia, 24 years old, and a book-binder by trade. Both his parents are living and he has served two jail sentences. "Dago Frank" gave his correct name as Frank Cirofici, 27 years old, a native of Italy, and a steam-fitter by occupation. He has served one jail term and described himself as a moderate drinker. "Lefty" Louis said he was christened Louis Rosenberg, is 21 years old, a native of Austria, and married. He has been a salesman, he said. He was temperate and had served one jail sentence. "Gip-the-Blood" was recorded as Harry Horowitz, a clerk, 24 years old, native of New York City, married, and temperate. The state's informers—Rose, Vallon, Webber and Schepps—who have been held in prison during the trial, probably will be released this afternoon. William Shapiro, driver of the "murder car," and jointly indicted with the gun men and Becker, also will go free. Of the seven indicted for the Rosenthal murder this leave but one defendant to be tried. He is Jack Sullivan, "king of the news-

FIGHTING STOPS AS PEACE APPROACHES

PROBABILITY THAT ALLIES WILL NOT ENTER CONSTANTINOPLE AFTER ALL.

BULGARS DENY DEFEAT

Claim Reports From Constantinople Are Not Correct—Servians Continue to Hold Conquered Territory.

London, Nov. 20.—Fighting between the Turkish and Bulgarian armies struggling for the possession of the key to the gates of Constantinople, has temporarily ceased and the opposing commanders in chief are engaged in negotiating the terms of an armistice.

In accordance with the suggestion contained in the Bulgarian note that the allied Balkan nations are prepared to meet the Turkish commander the Ottoman government has appointed Nazim Pasha to confer with General Savoff, the Bulgarian leader. The Turkish general, who has been putting up such excellent defense of the ramparts of the capital, now has had put to him the additional burden of deciding whether or not further display of tenacity behind the fortifications of Tchataldja may bring easier terms and save to the Ottoman empire more than Constantinople and a strip of Thrace along the shores of the sea of Marmora, which seemingly is all that the conquerors at present are disposed to leave to the vanquished.

Garrison Fled.
Belgrade, Nov. 20.—According to the latest reports from Monastir, the Turkish garrisons did not surrender, but fled in all directions, leaving a large amount of war material behind. After the terrific battle which preceded the fall of the city, most of the Turkish soldiers fled in the direction of Florina, fifteen miles to the south-east, pursued by the Serbian cavalry. The Turks lost 20,000 killed and wounded in the battle and the Serbian casualties also were very heavy. The crown prince of Serbia made his state entry into the city yesterday.

Constantinople, Nov. 20.—The position of the Tchataldja line was described from Nazim Pasha, the Turkish commander-in-chief, in a telegram to the Turkish war office, timed 12:15 o'clock today as follows: "Reports received at this moment state that the enemy facing our left wing withdrew completely last night in the direction of the slopes of Papez Burgaz. Our reconnoitering parties counted over 500 dead Bulgarians on the slopes in the environs of Tchataldja railway station. From their epauletts it was established that the dead soldiers belonged to the first infantry regiment of Sofia. A number of rifles, caps and officers' swords were brought in by our troops."

Without Food.
According to statements made by Bulgarian prisoners the enemy has been without food for three days and is retreating. The Bulgarians were unable to carry away all their wounded.

Claim Victory.
A wireless dispatch from the commander of the Turkish battleship, Torgut Reis, timed at 1:00 a. m., Nov. 20, reports that a Turkish detachment operating from Derkos, aided by the fire of the six guns, drove back the Bulgarians in the direction of Ormanli and Karaburum, for a distance of ten miles.

Deny Any Defeats.
Sofia, Nov. 20.—All the reports emanating from Turkish sources alleging that the Turkish troops had gained victories over the Bulgarians along the line of fortification at Tchataldja officially are declared untrue by the Bulgarian war office today. This is the only information given out thus far in regard to the three days' operations of the Bulgarian army before Constantinople with the exception of yesterday's announcement that the armies had been engaged at the advance points on the line.

Many Arrests.
London, Nov. 20.—Both Ottoman and foreign interests in Constantinople are awaiting the publication there of definite news regarding the progress of the war, which is centered in the large number of arrests of politicians and writers belonging to the party of union and progress. According to a special dispatch from the Turkish capital the Ottoman government, through a local press agency, has issued a statement that only forty arrests have been made and that the sole reason for these was the organization of a demonstration by university students in front of the government offices on October 7.

At first the most remarkable stories were circulated in explanation of the arrests. With a view of influencing Musselman opinion it was explained that the unionists were plotting to establish a republic. An attempt was also made to divert Christian and foreign sympathy from the arrested men by the circulation of a report that the object of the organization was to arrange massacres and to blow up the foreign quarters at Pera.

These reports were so manifestly and clumsily false that the government felt constrained to issue today's statement regarding the students. Diplomatic circles, however, attribute the arrests to a very different reason. They believe they were due to the nomination by the Sultan at the behest of the unionists of Mahmud Shekret-Pasha as inspector general of the army. This action was intended to cause the fall of the Ottoman cabinet. Neither the public nor counsel for the defense was admitted to the court martial which tried the arrested unionists. This rigorous action of the authorities is expected to suppress union opposition for a long time to come.

INTERESTING TALK ON PUBLIC HEALTH

Dr. F. B. Dresslar, Who Examined Janesville School Buildings Makes Statement.

Dr. F. B. Dresslar of the United States Bureau of Education, who visited the Janesville school buildings some weeks ago and investigated conditions relative to sanitation and light in several of the buildings has just issued a Bulletin relative to public health that is of interest.
"We need more doctors of public health than more doctors of medicine," says Dr. F. B. Dresslar, in "The duty of the State in Medical Inspection of Schools." Dr. Dresslar pleads earnestly for the kind of medical inspection that seeks to promote health rather than that which hunts for ill-health. "Our system of paying doctors to do something for us when we are sick ought to be largely discarded, for the Chinese system of paying them to keep us from getting sick."
Dr. Dresslar justifies the State's intervention in the health of its citizens on broad grounds of public policy. He feels that the community has as much right to go to the doctor as the children as it has to demand that they attend school, as much right to preserve the community against the contagion of diseases and bodily neglect as against the contagion of ignorance. The chief asset of any State is physical stamina aided by wholesome moral ideals, and broadminded intellectual power and Dr. Dresslar contends that medical inspection and health supervision are indispensable agencies for conserving this asset.

In answer to the question: Has medical inspection as now organized proved useful? Dr. Dresslar shows conclusively that medical inspection has called attention to a starting point in transmitting disease; it has already lessened actual illness and consequently secured better school attendance; and best of all, medical inspection in the hands of carefully trained men with the right spirit has proved to be an educational agent of great value, by stimulating parents to give more attention to food, clothing, sleeping rooms and general home sanitation, and by disseminating better ideals of hygienic living.

It is in this increased knowledge by the people as a whole concerning the personal care of health that Dr. Dresslar finds the greatest ultimate good of medical inspection. He notes that great numbers of our people are still in gross ignorance and superstition regarding health and disease since many of them constantly attribute to a divine Providence death from diseases directly due to filth. "Our chief duty lies in removing the causes which contribute to physical unsoundness and disease. As long as we herd our children in schools where they must breathe impure air, bend over insanitary school desks, work at books when they need physical exercise, just so long shall we be paying for our own errors."

Dr. Dresslar concludes that we need health officers whose chief delight is in finding and developing beautiful cases of physical perfection rather than in finding some obscure and rare disease; health officers whose philosophy is based on the gospel of physical vigor, on the sanctity of personal purity and on the godliness of clean-living; "doctors of health" in very truth, who will be concerned with exhibiting, not a long list of the physically defective and diseased, but a large list of healthy, well-developed children.

UNION HOME MISSION CAMPAIGN TO BEGIN

Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches of City to Have Mass Meeting.

A nationwide campaign for the federated churches of the United States was begun yesterday, in the interests of home missions, when thousands of ministers of many denominations preached simultaneously on the subject, "Our Country's Debt to Christ." The united effort is a part of the movement advocated by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, now numbering thirty-two denominations and over 17,000,000 communicants, which will hold its second quadrennial meeting in Chicago on Dec. 4 to 10.

In co-operation with the above national movement the Baptist, Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches of Janesville will hold a union mass meeting in the First Congregational church on Thursday evening next, Nov. 21, at 7:30 o'clock. A most cordial invitation is extended to all the citizens to meet and hear about our own country's share in this great interest of Christian work in our home field.

Rev. David Beaton will preside, and speak on "What the Home Mission has done in the making of our new states." Rev. T. D. Williams will speak on "The City Problems." Rev. J. W. Laughlin will give an address on "Frontier Work," and Rev. J. C. Hazen will speak on "Some Phases of Home Mission Work That I Like." There will be a general rally of practical working forces and interest. The various Missionary societies and Brotherhoods are especially expected to attend and learn the actual present service rendered by our Protestant activities in our own home land.

HOLD LAST SERVICES FOR HARRY HARRISON

Funeral of Lamented Young Man Held This Afternoon From Home of E. P. Doty on East Street.

Funeral services for the lamented Harry Harrison, the former Janesville young man, who was suddenly stricken with death in Sioux City Sunday morning, were held at three o'clock this afternoon at the home of E. P. Doty, 124 East street. The Rev. John McKinney, rector of the Christ Episcopal church officiated. The pall bearers were: Mr. Anderson, Burton Ames and Fritz Kroken of Stoughton, Lawrence Doty of Chicago, and Starr, Leo and Edward, Atwood of this city. Many friends and kin of the departed came to view for the last time the face of him whom they held in high esteem and affection, manifested by the beautiful floral designs and sprays heaped about his casket. Among these was a large spray from the members of the Janesville Gazette, force with whom he had worked. After the services at the Doty home the remains were conveyed to Oak Hill cemetery where they were tenderly laid to rest. Among those from out of the city who were present at the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Larson, Burton Ames, Mr. Dyreson, Mr. Anderson and Fritz Kroken of Stoughton, Mr. and Mrs. Volney Atwood of Sioux City, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Doty of Chicago. The widow of Mr. Harrison and Mr. and Mrs. Volney accompanied the remains here from Sioux City, arriving in the city yesterday noon.

DISCOVER ANOTHER CASE OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Patient, a Five Year Old Girl, Has Disease in a Very Light Form—House Placarded.

Another case of infantile paralysis has been reported to Health Officer Dr. M. A. Cunningham by Dr. Frank B. Farnsworth. ORMOND N. DUTTON DIED LAST NIGHT

Well Known Rock County Resident Passes Away at Home Five Miles North of Janesville.

Ormond N. Dutton, for over fifty years a resident of Rock county and one of the esteemed residents of the town of Janesville, passed away shortly after one o'clock this morning at his home five miles north of this city. He was aged 71 years, five months and eighteen days.

Mr. Dutton was born in the state of Vermont, June 22, 1841. He came to Wisconsin when a lad, accompanying his parents when they moved to Rock county in 1856. He was the son of Noah Dutton, now deceased, for many years a prominent Janesville citizen.

Mr. Dutton served in the Civil War with the 22nd Wisconsin regiment and soon after his return from the conflict was married and settled on the farm in the town of Janesville where his death occurred early today. Mr. Dutton was highly revered and respected by a host of friends. His passing will cause sincere sorrow.

Beside his wife he leaves five children: Miss Julia N. Dutton of Janesville; Mrs. Hattie M. Roberts of West Allis, Wis.; Jasper O. Dutton of Evansville; E. W. Dutton who resided at the homestead; and Mrs. J. E. Wildermuth of Fargo, N. D.

Funeral services will be held at the home at two o'clock Friday afternoon. Elder W. A. McDowell of Bristol, Ill., will officiate.

Eliza Jane Cleland.
Eliza Jane Cleland was born in the town of Janesville, March 30, 1852, and has always lived in the family home. Four years ago the family moved into Janesville. Since her mother passed away five years ago she has been her father's constant companion and greatest comfort. Miss Cleland was a member of the Presbyterian church and a woman of the Christian character. She leaves to mourn her loss her father, James, Cleland; George, David, Henry, and John Cleland her

How easily you forget the heater—until the house is cold as a barn. Then you run to the cellar, and fire up. Install the Jewell Heat Controller, and you can forget your heating troubles entirely. It will keep your home evenly, healthily heated all the time—you need never bother about the drafts. The Jewell will think and act for you.

The JEWELL HEAT CONTROLLER

Upstairs, you set the Indicator at the temperature desired—the Jewell does the rest. It automatically opens and closes the drafts, keeping the house uniformly heated.

You can have cool rooms to sleep in. By means of the Clock Attachment the Jewell mechanically starts the fire and the house is 70° at 7 when you awake. The Jewell scientifically utilizes every ounce of fuel. It pays for itself in a short time in coal saved.

See it demonstrated—or have it installed on 30 days' free trial. Applied to all heating systems—and guaranteed for 25 years.

Janesville will not play Eau Claire for the present. Eau Claire at least recognized the locals' claim by the letter Coach Curtis received this morning. Their refusal to play is a good one and no kicks can be made, as the northern school claims the expense in bringing the locals up there would be great, being in the neighborhood of $200. Janesville considers this a good excuse and will make an effort to arrange another game. The Waukesha game for this week has been canceled. The Spring City boys have arranged another game since yesterday, when the locals should have let them know about the Eau Claire dope. This the locals failed to do, and so consequently no game is scheduled for this week.

Another game which will not come off this week is the game between Oshkosh and Madison. Madison refused to play Janesville also, and so their claim to championship honors is no longer recognized by the teams left, and nothing more will be done with them. There are only three teams left now and these teams will fight it out if the weather permits.

The locals will now endeavor to play Oshkosh, as Oshkosh has now asked if there are any teams in the state claiming the title. Oshkosh says that if no teams report to them in due time, they will play Rockford, Ill., on some date soon for the championship of Wisconsin and Illinois.

His Self-Analysis.

I have never seen a greater monster or miracle in the world than myself.—Montaigne.

DR. S. B. HARTMAN.

Catarth begins by congestion of the blood vessels of a mucous membrane. Any mucous membrane is made up mostly of minute blood vessels, called capillaries. Cold or irritation of any sort is liable to produce congestion of these capillaries. If the irritation is slight and is quickly removed the congestion very soon disappears and no bad result obtains. But if the irritation is repeated many times or is long continued a chronic condition of congestion of the mucous membranes may occur. This is ordinarily called catarth.

The blood no longer circulates freely in the small blood vessels that compose the mucous membrane. The blood becomes dammed up in the vessels, causing the vessels to swell up and the blood to stagnate and the serum of the blood to exude from the walls of the blood vessels, producing discharges.

These discharges are ordinarily called mucous discharges. The fact is, however, the discharges are not properly mucus. Real mucus does not irritate but is a wholesome fluid which covers every mucous membrane in the body. The catarthial discharge is a deranged sort of mucus that is irritating and very unwholesome. Such a discharge not only further irritates the mucous membranes, sometimes completely destroying them, but the discharge is a weakening drain on the system. Precious blood serum is lost in this way.

This condition of affairs is liable to happen in the stomach, in the bowels, and any other internal organ. As said before, it most frequently occurs in the nose and throat.

Sometimes a little relief can be obtained by the use of local applications, especially when the catarth is confined to the nose and throat. But catarth cannot be successfully treated by local applications. The only remedies that are effective are internal remedies.

To devise a remedy for catarth that could be taken safely and effectively for catarth wherever it happened to be located in the body, to devise such a remedy has been the ambition and study of my lifetime.

I think I have obtained such a remedy in Peruna. I regard Peruna as an effective and a safe catarth remedy. I have never recommended it for any other disease than catarth. The notion that prevails that I regard Peruna as a cure all is entirely erroneous. Catarth is liable to affect so many organs for which I have recommended Peruna that it has given rise to the impression that I recommend Peruna for different diseases. I recommend Peruna only for catarth. But I do insist that it is a remedy not only for catarth of the nose and throat, but for catarth of the stomach and lungs, liver and other internal organs.

The kidneys are especially liable to catarth. If the catarth goes on unchecked in the kidneys it leads to organic disease, sometimes called Bright's disease.

I wish to make it plain that Peruna is not a cure-all; that I have never recommended it as a cure-all; that I have always insisted that it was a remedy for catarth and for catarth only. I hope I have made this plain.

If catarth affects the stomach, Peruna is the remedy.

If catarth affects the kidneys, Peruna is the remedy.

If catarth affects the colon, the intestines, or the lungs, Peruna is the remedy.

Not because Peruna is a remedy for many diseases, but because catarth can locate itself in these various organs and disturb their functions.

Sometimes catarth is associated with constipation. Other times a catarthial subject may not be troubled with constipation. In some instances there is a looseness of the bowels.

People beginning the use of Peruna for chronic catarth, wherever located, will usually get valuable advice by writing me, giving me a statement of the case.

I do not think it will be necessary for me in this article to describe catarth of the various organs of the body. It is sufficient for me to say in a general way that any organ is subject to catarth, because these organs are lined by a mucous membrane. When once catarth attacks an organ it deranges the function of that organ more or less.

If catarth attacks the stomach dyspepsia is the result.

If it attacks the larynx and bronchial tubes, bronchitis and laryngitis will result.

If it attacks the lungs, cough and symptoms that resemble consumption will follow.

If catarth attacks the kidneys disturbance of the urinary organs is certain. Catarth of the bladder is a very common form of catarth. It produces distressing symptoms. A large proportion of men past middle life have this form of catarth, more or less.

I not only devised a remedy to meet these cases, but I have at my command a corps of assistants and helpers which enables me to come into personal touch with thousands of people suffering from catarth, and assist them in the treatment of their case.

BUSINESS AND POLITICS.
That national politics is no longer a leading factor in business is apparent today, when a change of administration has in no way affected the feeling of confidence which has so long prevailed. The manufacturers of the country are loaded with orders for months ahead, and no countermands are being received, as was the case in 1892.
The tariff has ceased to be a menace, as many of our industries are now able to compete with the old world, and the expenses of our government are so heavy, that a tariff for revenue only, means liberal protection. The following summary of the steel industry is significant, and forecasts continued prosperity. Many other lines are in the same healthy condition.
The announcement by President-elect Wilson of a coming extra session of congress next spring will, according to steel men, have no effect on the business. They are confident that orders taken thus far this year for delivery in 1913 will not be affected. One steel manufacturer says:
"With all the contracts that we have signed for large tonnages of steel to be delivered during the rest of this year and the first half of next, we have not had one buyer mention cancellation in case of a democratic election. This shows that they are not afraid of any change in the tariff. If they were they would certainly not contract for six to seven months ahead. There is not a large steel company in the country, I believe, that could not go out and in a few weeks take orders for a full year's operations. There is not a steel company but what is turning good business away. Most of them are only contracting in the second quarter and the first of the third quarter to oblige old customers."
Most of the large steel companies are already booked from four to six months ahead. The Steel Corporation has a full seven months' orders on its books; the Cambria Steel Co. seven months, Republic six months, Bethlehem five to six months, Lackawanna seven months, Jones & Laughlin, nearly eight months, and Crucible Steel about five months. These contracts call for prices several dollars per ton above current quotations, and in some cases even more than that.
Since election there has not been one case of cancellation, according to the steel man quoted above, so far as he can find out. Consumers are as just as anxious to place tonnage now as before election, and will sign contracts calling for delivery into the third quarter of next year.
The European mills are booked ahead even farther into next year than the domestic companies. The export shipments of steel from this country will make a new high record this year, showing that the mills in other countries cannot even take care of their own markets. Only in the case of a falling off in orders in the next few months, will a reduction of tariff have effect on the steel business of this country. The business of the United States has not fallen off since election. It has shown an increase. Railroads show no signs of reducing orders, and are buying at present even more than they were a few months ago. To date the roads have placed orders calling for more than 7,500,000 tons of steel, including cars, rails, bridges and locomotives. This figure for 1912 will be considerably over 8,000,000 tons. Most of this steel will be delivered in 1913, so that there need be no fear, from present indications, of a slowing down of operations for the next nine months to a year. One of the biggest steel manufacturers in the country even goes so far as to state that it will be eighteen months before any noticeable reduction in business is felt.

HAZARD OF OIL WELLS.
A reporter asked one of the attorneys connected with the oil hearings which has been going on in New York since last June why it was that more of the oil companies that depend on the actual production from the wells did not show more elasticity in the way of dividends.
"It is a simple question and requires a simple answer," he replied. "There was never an oil well in existence that would justify the company owning it in guaranteeing any dividends, because it might 'peter out' overnight. Down in Texas I have known of wells that were producing on the average 30,000 barrels of oil a day. In a week's time the supply had been diminished to 1,000 barrels a day. That reminds me of a story," he said. "In a certain oil-producing region in the Southwest a new well had been located and the flow was about 1,500 barrels daily. Great blocks of stock had been sold through the newspapers and the company looked prosperous. The watchman at night was an old negro who had bought a share. Returning from his labors one morning, he immediately rushed to the office of the company and exclaimed: 'Everybody's rich now; go nice, clear, refined oil in the spring this morning, boss.'"
An investigation showed that the well had run dry. The refined oil that the old negro spoke of was nothing but plain everyday water, and no oil.
It will be noticed from the above, that even the oil business is more or less of a lottery, but while wells are constantly failing, nature's great warehouse is by no means exhausted, and new sources of supply are discovered on every hand. Oil fields are more numerous than coal fields.
As time progresses, the republicans of the country, regardless of regular or progressive tendencies, will realize the importance of getting together, and no leader, however magnetic, should be permitted to interfere. There is only room in this country for two great parties, and whatever may be necessary, by way of reform, can be worked out within the ranks. It is idle to claim that Colonel Roosevelt can again be president, and his ambition should not induce efforts to harmonize the two factions. The seal of disapproval has been placed on the third term proposition, not to be removed.

THE MODERN WOODMEN. who are fighting the advanced schedule of rates, recently adopted by the order, are making a mistake. The Woodman, like all other fraternal organizations, has been furnishing protection at a loss, and nothing but a revolution in rates will prevent bankruptcy. The experience of this class of companies is an object lesson which should convince the most skeptical. They all go the same route, and the victims who survive wake up to discover that they have passed the insurance age. Every state should pass stringent laws to regulate these organizations.
The taxpayers of Beloit, as well as of the state at large, should realize that an increase of $10,000,000 in taxes means a substantial advance in rates all along the line. Reform comes high but we must have it and ought to be willing to pay for it. The income tax is only one of the pleasant reminders. The business of the tax commission is to get the money to pay the bills, as well as to equalize the burdens to the best of its ability. There is bound to be some dissatisfaction, and there is room for a lot more, before the people wake up and call a halt.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT
BY ROY K. MOULTON.
Old Subscriber.
One of our myriad friends, Old Subscriber dropped in the other day. "They have got a rumor in our town that your wife writes all of your stuff. Is that true?"
"Oh, yes, no doubt of it at all."
"Do you drink a whole lot? Do you have to be soured in order to grind out your stuff?"
"Yes, we haven't drawn a sober breath in nineteen years."
"They say you are a terrible gambler and that you play poker every night. Is that so?"
"Yes, we must admit the soft impeachment. We are the most ardent pokerist in the country."
"They say you have been arrested for forgery three times and that you have a long prison record. Is that so?"
"Yes."
"They say you smoke twenty packages of cigarettes every day."
"The exact number is twenty-three packages a day."
"I heard that you were arrested for robbing an orphan asylum contribution box. Is that so?"
"Yes, also for horse stealing kidnapping, manslaughter, embezzlement, assault and battery and habeas corpus, a pluribus unum, nunc pretunc, probono publico and in hoc signo vinces."
"Well, I'll be ding swizzled!" said Old Subscriber. "Do you know what I think of you? I think you are the dauntiest liar in this country and I don't think you have told me the truth since I have been in here."
"You are right again. We have not told you the truth once since you came into the place. Good-day."
"Well, I'll be horn-swoggled! Good day."
Yes, it's true.
To be prepared you'll find it pays, Put on your heavy schedule K's.
The Road to Wealth.
Little Willie couldn't learn much. Folks all thought he was a fool; Didn't study, but played baseball. When he should have been in school. Folks called him a good-for-nothing. On book-learning he was dense; But when he would pound the horsehide, It would go clean o'er the fence. Now he's got an automobile; 'Tis a handsome racing car, And more dough than he can handle; He's a pennant baseball star.
A Good Job.
"Have you got everything?" asked the four amendments to the state constitution all carried at the recent election. Why? Because of indifference on the part of the voters. The one which provides for condemning property and which was drafted, in the interests of the state capital, was defeated in Rock county because the people were advised of its danger, but it was passed by the state, without question, the same as the primary law, and income tax. Any sort of an amendment goes, when submitted to the people.
The municipal court of Chicago recently went begging for a judge. Nobody wanted the job because so many wealthy people were brought before the court for automobile speeding that the man on the bench soon lost caste, and was ostracized from society, if any thing more than a nominal fine was imposed. It requires some courage to be a judge nowadays.
It is to be regretted that the kind of insanity which prompted Schrank to attempt the life of Colonel Roosevelt, can not be detected, before the deed is committed. This class of men have no right to be at large, but there seems no way to shut them up. The Northern hospital is likely to shelter Schrank for the rest of his life.
The commission form of government for counties, now being talked of for Wisconsin, is not new, in this country. The state of Florida has been under this kind of government for years, and the people are well satisfied with results.

JURY SECURED TODAY TO TRY MURDER CASE

TWELVE MEN SELECTED TO TRY TWO YOUTHS FOR DEATH OF MATILDA BERGSTERMAN.

VISIT SCENE OF DEATH

Both State and Defense Presented Their Opening Arguments and Witnesses Were Examined.

Counsel for the prosecution and defense in the trial of Edward Meyer and Harry F. Berger, charged with committing the murder and making a criminal attack upon Matilda Bergsterman on the night of September 30, completed the task of selecting the jury to hear the case shortly before half past two o'clock this afternoon and the twelve jurors selected took their places in the jury box and listened to the opening statements made by District Attorney Stanley G. Dunwiddie for the state and Attorney Thomas S. Nolan for the defense.

The twelve men selected were: Ellsworth, Caldwell, William Seaver, S. G. Strong, A. J. Winograd, W. D. Garde, William Magill, Beloit; Fred Dockhorn, Bradford, O. P. Murwin, Fulton; John Sveon, Avon; J. K. Naugel, Newark; C. E. Culver, La Prairie, and George Rea, Edgerton.

After the attorneys had made their statements, the jurors, accompanied by the judge and officers of the court, the counsel and the prisoners went to the Bergsterman home in carryalls and to the corner of Washington and Park avenues, from which point one of the witnesses for the state claimed to have heard the girl's cries. It was expected that the state would put its first witnesses on the stand after the return to the court room. Mr. and Mrs. E. Couklin were the witnesses expected to testify.

All this morning was spent in examining jurors, and when the court was adjourned to two o'clock this afternoon, the full jury list had not been made up, although there were eleven possible jurors, whose names had not been struck in the box. Twenty-two veniremen summoned on the special venire of seventy-five ordered by the court yesterday morning were examined this morning by the attorneys for the prosecution and the defense.

Of the eleven men examined five were new men selected today, while four of the original five selected on Monday and two of those selected yesterday remained. The eleven, whose names were read shortly before noon by the clerk, were: Ellsworth, Caldwell, William Seaver, S. G. Strong, William Magill, George Rea and Fred Dockhorn, of the original and special panel of yesterday and A. J. Winograd, Beloit; O. P. Murwin, Fulton; John Sveon, Avon; A. B. Jones, Janesville; and J. K. Naugel of Newark of the special venire of seventy-five summoned today.

Of the twenty-two jurors examined this morning, twelve were excused because of admitted prejudice from reading newspaper accounts of the murder; one was excused on account of business which he could not leave, H. N. Wagley of Oronville; and Hiram Cooper of Newark was given permission to return to his home because of the illness of his wife. Of the eleven whose names were announced, it is not known yet who will be selected, as the attorneys had not completed striking names from the list, and one or two of those who occupied the jury box were further examined just before the session this morning was closed.

The proceedings this morning did not start until half past ten in order that some of those summoned might have time to come in on the trains, and when the roll call of those summoned was read by the clerk, three were absent, but they appeared later, having been delayed in arriving. Of the seventy-five men selected on the special venire, six were out of the county and could not be summoned and two were unable to answer the summons because of sickness. Four farmers who telephoned before court was called were excused by the judge, as they were unable to leave their homes on account of work to be done or because of sickness in their families.

Two men, E. H. Koebelin and Charles E. Curtis of this city were excused as exempt from jury duty because of service in the national guard. John Bates of Porter claimed exemption because of his age, 66, and was excused and W. W. Day of La Prairie convinced the court that his deafness prevented him from serving. The total number excused from jury duty in the murder trial of the men summoned in today's special venire, for valid reasons, was thirteen, with the twenty-two excused because of an opinion as to the innocence or guilt of the defendants, and those struck from the jury list by attorneys, brought the total number excused today to forty-one.

The efforts to secure an impartial jury to hear the case have thus far occupied the better part of three days, and it is not likely that the full number will be made up before late this afternoon. C. H. Hoffman of Beloit, was the only man of the twenty-one examined this morning who had not heard nor read of the murder, and Attorney Nolan explained the nature of the charge to Mr. Hoffman who stated that he had not known exactly what the case was that he had been summoned for. He was not, however, one of the men whose names were left on the jury list. Members of the special venire of seventy-five excused were released for the rest of the term, but others summoned today for jury duty and the special panel of yesterday were ordered by the court to appear next Monday afternoon at two o'clock.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Chicken-pox Epidemic: There are numerous cases of small-pox in the city at the present time, according to City Health Officer Dr. M. A. Cunningham. Between twenty and thirty cases are reported from one ward school. Placards have been put up on most of these houses but it is not required that members of the family not having the disease remain at home. He has advised, however, that other children not be permitted to enter the homes having chicken-pox cases.

Entertained at Party: Otto M. Johnson of 1214 Mineral Point avenue, entertained some fifty friends at a card party last evening at his home, and everyone present enjoyed a good time. Refreshments were served.

Finish Repairs: Supt. of Streets Milwaukee has finished making repairs to the street between the Paul bridge and Sharon street. A top dressing of gravel and cinders was spread upon a foundation of rubble. A high shoulder on Ravine street between Washington and Madison street, is being graded down, the dirt removed being placed between the curb and sidewalk at the Grant school.

Marriage License: A marriage license was issued today to Herbert C. Reinert of Rockford and Bessie M. Rosenthal of Beloit.

OVER TWO HUNDRED ENROLL IN COURSES OF EVENING SCHOOL

Ten Classes Have Been Formed in As Many Different Subjects—Many Take Sewing Course.

Last evening was enrollment night at the evening school. Two hundred and eight entered their names in the advance enrollment of the various classes. The rules of the Board require at least ten (10) names before a class will be formed.

The following are the numbers enrolled in the various classes: Dressmaking and plain sewing, 66. Salesmanship, 50. Shortland and typewriting, 23. Bookkeeping, 19. Reading and Writing English for foreigners, 16.

Mechanical drawing, 10. Electricity and gasoline engines, 9. Cooking, 7. Commercial Arithmetic, 5. Millinery, 3.

The classes in dressmaking and plain sewing will be regularly established Thursday evening. The pupils in these classes will be expected to bring shears, thimbles and five cents ($.05) to pay for thread, needles and material needed. The plan at present with this class is to establish a regular trade school program with beginners taking up plain sewing and those who are sufficiently skillful with the needle will enter the beginning class in dressmaking, while those with some experience in dressmaking will enter the advanced class. The Industrial Board will furnish additional sewing machines at once for this work.

Prof. Nyström will be here on Thursday evening to meet the class in salesmanship. The advanced enrollment of fifty (50) clerks and proprietors is a most encouraging outlook for this phase of the work. This is undoubtedly the highest grade course in salesmanship that will be offered in the night school for many years. Prof. Nyström gives the same course to the clerks here that individuals are paying eight dollars ($8) to have in other cities.

The class in shorthand and typewriting and bookkeeping will be able to make all of the progress of which they are capable during the thirty-two lessons.

Ten names have already been secured for the class in mechanical drawing and this will doubtless be increased to a much larger enrollment. If the subjects of gasoline engines and electricity could be merged into one group, there would be enough for the formation of a class. At present however, there are not enough enrolled to make either class a possibility.

The class in English for foreigners starts out in a most promising manner. Others in the city who could profit by such a course are urged to attend.

On the whole the interest shown in this industrial work and the large advance enrollment before the work really starts, far exceeds the most sanguine hopes for the greatest expectations of the Industrial Board and others interested in industrial education.

No Arrests: No arrests were made by the police last night and there were no cases to come before the municipal court this morning. If the present want of arrests and convictions continues the jail will doubtless be rid of drunks.

SEEKING TO REMEDY
BLACK SMOKE EVIL

City Council Will Probably Enact Ordinance Soon Compelling Abatement of Nuisance.

Abatement of the black smoke and soot nuisance, which has become especially pronounced since fires were started in furnaces and under heating boilers is sought by the City Council which will enact within a short time an ordinance covering that subject. City Clerk J. P. Hammariand has directed inquiries to the city clerks of Rockford, Elgin, Racine, and Kenosha for the purpose of learning whether these cities have smoke abatement ordinances and in what manner they are drawn. But one reply has been received thus far, that of the city clerk at Rockford. He states that a provision in their general nuisance ordinance has to do with the smoke evil. City Attorney W. H. Dougherty has been requested by Mayor Patters to draw up a tentative draft of a smoke ordinance.

The use of poor coal, improper firing, and chimneys too short to afford draft for clean combustion are given as the causes of the smoke nuisance. There are a number of serious offenders right in the business district. There is an almost continuous rain of soot on the Milwaukee street bridge from a heating plant chimney. Several large buildings east of the river belch out volumes of heavy black smoke which floats into buildings through open transoms and windows and makes the air in the streets dense and noxious. In places the soot falls so heavily that the suction of passing automobiles sends it swirling like sand across the sidewalks. Housewives in some parts of the city complain that clothes hung out to dry are often taken in blacker than when they went to the wash tub.

The council has not yet decided just what means it will take to attack the problem, but will probably compel the installation of smoke consumers or the use of fuel which can be burned without producing an offensive quantity of smoke. More care in firing would afford considerable relief. In some cases one fireman carries for several boilers. Instead of feeding them a little at a time, so as to have clean combustion, he throws in a large amount of fuel and closes the drafts. This causes a large amount of smoke to accumulate in the firebox and lower part of the chimney, and as soon as the drafts are opened it is carried up into the air.

TODAY'S EDGERTON NEWS

Edgerton, Nov. 20.—Mrs. Anna E. Noyes, Past Department President and Assistant Department Inspector of the Woman's Relief Corps, of Madison, inspected the work of the local corps last evening. Very little criticism was offered and the ladies were complimented on their work. For the "Good of Order," Mrs. Noyes gave a fine talk on the work of the order. The lady is a very bright and fluent speaker and was well received in W. R. C. work. Her talk as well as the report of the National convention, which was held at Los Angeles, in September, was very much enjoyed by those present. A five o'clock chicken pie supper was served and the evening was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Anthony Huxtable of Mineral Point, mother of W. W. Huxtable of this city, left last night for Janesville, after a brief visit in this city with her son and family.

Twelve members of the Stoughton W. R. C. came down and surprised the local order at their inspection last night.

H. C. Schmeling left yesterday for his farm at Seymour, in the northern part of the state.

A party of about twenty land seekers left yesterday for Montana. Last year the board of education started a campaign against the tobacco habit in both grades and high school. The state law which provides that a fine of $10 be assessed against any boy under sixteen who uses tobacco in any form was made known and it was decided to drop from school any grade boy who continued the habit. The campaign is still being carried on as is evidenced by the fact that a half dozen boys from their seventh grades were brought before Judge Jensen this morning where they were informed that the case would not be pushed against them this time but that a second offense would be punished by the most severe sentence that may be imposed. An attempt will be made to strictly enforce the law whenever possible.

John Copley has been ill at his home for the past week.

C. R. Stark visited Janesville today. Visitors at the Carlton Tuesday: S. C. Chambers, Milton Junction; Wm. Gage, Aunelny; J. Ziegler, Chicago; W. E. Schmidt, Chicago; S. Lodon, Monroe; Christ Christon, Stoughton; F. G. Kimball, Detroit; Mich.; J. Kennan, Beloit; Hugh Sweeney, City; John Hemmings, Beloit; L. K. Crissey, Janesville; S. Strong, Beloit.

Word reached Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Johnson of this city of the marriage of their oldest son, Elwin, to Miss Ethel McDowell, of Milton. The couple were married at Janesville, at five o'clock Tuesday afternoon of this week, and left immediately for Rice Lake to visit friends of both the bride and groom. The bride has been employed at Bostwick's department store of Janesville, in the altering department, for the past two years, and the groom has been employed by Borden and Carl, of Milton, for the past four years. Both parties have won many friends in the community in which they have lived and all unite in extending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Johnson.

DINNER STORIES

"England and Germany, spending all their cash on armaments, remind me of Mr. and Mrs. Spratt."

The speaker was Mayor Esterbrook of Pawtucket. He continued with a smile.

"England and Germany will arm themselves to the point of bankruptcy, to the point of impotence. It will be a case of Mr. and Mrs. Spratt, all over again."

"Mr. Spratt, you know, once told his friends that he would attend a certain 'smoker' and Mrs. Spratt told him very firmly that she wouldn't. Well, a nonpartisan acquaintance, the evening of the smoker in question, dropped in at the Spratts to see who had won one out."

"The visitor found Spratt and his wife fast asleep in their chairs at the dining room table. 'Spratt, you see had put sleeping powder in Mrs. Spratt's coffee so that he might slip away, and she had put sleeping powder in his to prevent him from doing it.'"

A. A. Whipple, who was in the real estate business in Kansas City when Ninth and Grand avenue property was listed as "suburban," is regarded as a hero by his personal friends. In assuming this attitude, they take the ground that any man who will go ahead and do a thing against his most mortal fears is deserving of a Carnegie medal the size of a dinner plate. The thing in question is the making of public speeches.

"I regard an invitation to make an 'after dinner talk' as a challenge," Mr. Whipple said one day. "I argue this way: My friend Blank believes I am afraid to face a crowd and make a speech; he doubts my personal courage. Now it's up to me to show Blank I'm a better man than he takes me to be. If my knees tremble and my knees together I shall lean against the table so he will never know. I am in some respects like the soldier who was charging with the rest of his regiment up the heights of Vicksburg but so scared he looked like a ghost. A comrade next to him was unafraid and even smiled at the torrents of grape shot that swept the ranks. The comrade, noticing his friend's plight, turned to him and said with a sneer: 'Coward!'

"'Coward yourself,' retorted the frightened soldier. 'Old man, if you were one-tenth as scared as I am, you would have broken ranks and run long ago.'"

MILTON JUNCTION

Milton Junction, Nov. 20.—Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Looft were at Palmyra to spend Sunday.

Mrs. G. K. Edis returned yesterday from Wauwatosa where she went to attend the funeral of an aunt.

A large crowd attended the lecture last evening at the M. E. church. It was the second number of the lecture course.

W. A. Dodd has returned from his hunting trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Davis have gone to Endora, Kan. for a visit.

Mrs. McPhail of Stevens Point, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Hartman.

Miss Edna Davy has returned from her week's visit in Chicago and is again at work.

Mrs. Costerian of Genesee Depot, is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. Julia Fuller of Edgerton, is visiting at Chas. Ogden's.

Miss Mildred Conkey spent the week end at the parental home.

The ladies of the M. E. church will serve supper in the P. of H. hall from five until all are served Wednesday evening. Everyone is welcome.

Miss Edna Sikes is home from her work in Janesville for a vacation.

The Misses Jennie and Meda and Ansley Hudson, spent Sunday at James Clarke's at Johnson.

TOBACCO WAREHOUSE

IS BEING IMPROVED

Haskins and Schwartz Make Extensive Changes on West Bluff Street Building.

Between seventy-five hundred and eight thousand dollars will be expended by the tobacco firm of Haskins & Schwartz of this city, this year in remodeling the building now occupied by them as a warehouse, and in adding a wing to the present structure. Work of remodeling the old building and raising the roof a height of nine feet has already commenced and building operations on the new wing will be commenced shortly in order to have it completed by the first of next year.

In addition to raising the height of the building to two stories, which will give increased storage space, the lower part of the building, which has been used as an assorting room will be rebuilt so as to include a sweat room and a bundle room.

The floor for the second story has been laid and the work on the upper part of the building is being rushed. Heavy buttresses to hold up the weight on the second floor have been placed and the room to be used for sweating the tobacco has been sealed up.

The new wing will be one story in height and will be used as an assorting room. Its dimensions, as planned by the architects, Hilton & Sadler, are very irregular, as it is to be placed in the flat of ground between the present warehouse and the sidewalk on West Bluff street. It will be joined to the old building, which was formerly the St. Paul railroad station, at the west end and its longest dimension eighty-eight feet and ten inches, will be on that side. The side of the wing toward the old building will be fifty-two feet in length and the other dimension will correspond with the size of the plot.

The new structure is to be brick-veneered. It will furnish accommodations for ninety assorters, and the packing room and the sweaters. The elevator of the old station will be placed at the outer edge of the present structure so as to be easily accessible from the main building and the wing.

A heating plant will be installed for heating the new and old parts. When the work is completed the firm will have a plant equipped with all modern improvements for the handling of leaf tobacco.

More Money in Hogs

Worms are the pests that cut down your stock profits. They keep your pigs from thriving, stunt the little ones, affect your brood sows and the size and vigor of their litters. Some hogs will eat their heads off and not gain a pound; others will gain slowly, many die and if Cholera breaks out in your neighborhood, the worm infested hogs are first to take it and almost sure to die.

SAL-VET
The Great Worm Destroyer and Conditioner

Sal-Vet is a medicated stock salt. Stops all losses from worms quickly. No ray if it fails. No drenching or dosing, just put a supply where your hogs can run to it freely and they will doctor themselves. You will make more money from hogs if you use Sal-Vet. Thousands have proven it. At The Theatre

"A MODERN EVE."

There will be an unusually interesting evening for music-lovers at the Metropolitan Theatre Wednesday evening, November 27, when Mort H. Singer, successful Berlin operetta, "A Modern Eve," will permit of an opportunity of viewing for the first time the musical comedy which has been the talk of Europe and America this year. Tuneful songs, pretty girls, beautiful costumes, capable principals and lively dances are said to be the attributes with which "A Modern Eve" weaned the Chicago public's attention from the summer heat and counter attractions. Mort H. Singer did not import an unknown quantity, who he brought the operetta Berlin, as it is now in its second year of unabated popularity in the German capital. The scenes are laid in France, and the story relates of the interesting Cascaidier family. Father and two charming daughters are completely dominated by the mother. She advocates sex equality, but denies equality to the husband, whom she relegates to the kitchen, while she practices law. She encourages her daughters to pursue professional careers to be independent of men, so one becomes a physician, the other an artist. The ardent suitors she shields the daughters, and eventually disprove the mother's theory by compelling their sweethearts to surrender in true feminine style. Among the many song hits to be enjoyed are "Goodbye, Everybody," the waltz song which has captivated the country. "You're Such a Lonesome Moon Tonight," "Is the Girl You Married Still the Girl You Love?" "Rita, My Margaria," and "Hello Sweetheart."

"TESS OF THE STORM COUNTRY."

As a book, "Tess of the Storm Country" was considered a masterpiece of fiction, as a play there can be no question of its merit, dramatized by that clever writer Rupert Hughes, has caused this wonderful character: "Tess" to step from the pages of the book bringing with her all the slang, rough ways etc., that was first given her by the printer. "Tess" is a half wild Tom-boy, who cares not a snap for the proper way a young girl should conduct herself. She would just as leave walk barefoot in a crowded street as to appear in fine clothes. But she has a heart of gold and a deep capacity for loving, she is even willing to sacrifice her love in order to shield the sister of a man who is her ideal. She is cursed and beaten by nearly everyone and shunned by all, yet through all the audience understands, and in the final act when everything is explained and understood, one can look over the faces of the spectators and see nothing but smiles of satisfaction. "Will appear at Myers theatre on Thursday Nov. 28, Thanksgiving."

"COBURN PLAYERS"

One of the noteworthy features of the performance of The Coburn Players is the quality of acting by the members of the company. There are no stars, but even the most unimportant part has been most carefully studied and the stage management is simple and effective.

M. Coburn has made a great point of the clearness of diction believing that to appreciate Shakespeare no word can be lost. He insists on this both from the player who has but one line to the most important member in the company. As a result, the performances are exceptionally interesting and enjoyable. The subtleties and fine points of the plays, so often slighted, are brought out to their full value in expressing the ideas of the author. The most striking evidence of the success of this principle is the size of the audiences who greet The Coburn Players wherever they appear and the fact that nearly every university and college in the country has invited the company to give performances under their auspices.

In keeping with the careful adherence to the text of the book of the plays, is the attention to detail in providing proper costumes, properties and scenery. Mrs. Coburn makes this her particular province, while the company is not playing, and spends much of her time in her library consulting the various authorities on the subject so that there may be no discordant note in the harmony of the setting.

The scenery is designed to preserve the correct atmosphere of the period and form a background for the player, rather than to be so big and massive that it becomes obtrusive. It has been painted by Joseph A. Physioc, who painted all of the productions for Augustin Daly and Richard Mansfield, as well as many of the important scenes for recent plays.

The Coburn Players will present "Othello" at the Myers theatre on Saturday Nov. 30 matinee and evening.

"THEODORE THOMAS ORCHESTRA."

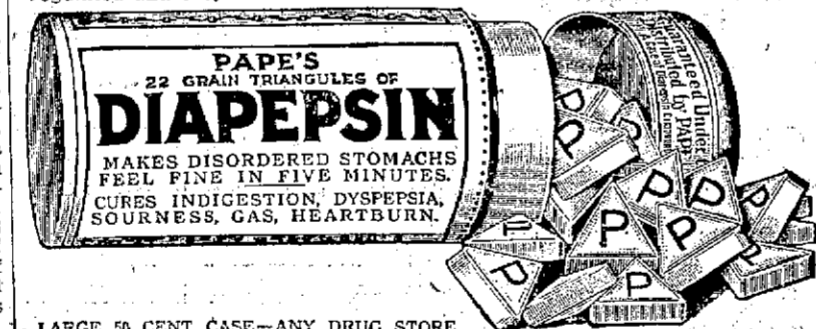

There was much conjecture after the death of Mr. Thomas as to who should succeed to the conductorship, and all of the great conductors of the world were suggested at one time or another. In the meantime the concerts were going on without any break, under the leadership of Frederick Stock, who had been assistant to Mr. Thomas for five years before his death. Only a few, who were in a position to know, realized that this brilliant young musician (at that time only thirty-three years of age) was already a great conductor and capable of carrying on the work. The audiences, musicians and musical critics, however, were not long in discovering this for themselves, with the result that Mr. Stock was the unanimous choice of the Trustees of the Orchestra Association, and was formally elected to the conductorship, an action which met with the hearty approval of the orchestra's large following in its home city.

Mr. Stock was born in Julich, Germany, on November 11, 1872, the son of a bandmaster in the German army. Under him he began his musical studies, entered the Cologne Conservatory at fourteen years of age, was graduated as a violinist, and then took up seriously the study of theory and composition under Engelbert Humperdinck, Heinrich Zöllner, Gustav Jensen and Franz Wüllner. In 1895 he came to America to become a member of the Chicago orchestra. Mr. Stock has written a considerable number of works in the larger forms—operas, symphonic poems, a set of symphonic variations, which have been repeatedly played in Chicago, and were brought forward by Franz Kneisel at the festival of 1906 in Worcester; Mr. Kneisel has also taken into his repertoire of chamber-music a string quartet by Mr. Stock of marked originality and strength. In harmonization and orchestration Mr. Stock belongs to the latter-day German school of vivid colorists. Mr. Stock's latest compositions are a Symphony in C minor (first played in Chicago December 31, 1909, and January 1, 1910, and at the Cincinnati May Festival in 1910) and a Festival March, written in commemoration of the opening of the twentieth season of the Theodore Thomas Orchestra, and dedicated to the officers and members of the Orchestra Association.

STOMACH BAD? BELCHING GAS AND SOUR FOOD? WANT TO FEEL FINE?

Wonder what upset your stomach—which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diapepsin and in five minutes you truly will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

Variety the Irritant of Life

MONOTONY, Jack was saying to a little group of friends, "is the bane of life. People get into ruts, and it takes dynamite to get them out. Yet they miss an awful lot by everlastingly doing the same things over and over in the same old way."

Jack's wife listened attentively.

"Poor boy," she thought. "He must get awful tired of my house-keeping. I do things the same way all the time. I'll give him a little change."

"Watermelon!" exclaimed Jack, as he sat down to breakfast the next morning. "What in thunder have you got watermelon for breakfast for?"

"We always have oranges or grapefruit, so I thought I would change it. You said yesterday, you hated monotony. So I thought watermelon would be the greatest change I could make, as we never have it for breakfast, even when it is in season. I hunted everywhere to find one. I wonder why it is always considered a dinner fruit?"

Jack pecked at it rather disgustedly and finally pushed his plate away.

"Great Scott!" he said, as the maid brought in fried oysters. "Aren't we going to have any cereal?"

"We always have cereal. So I changed that too."

"Fried oysters don't seem to go for breakfast," he said, taking a small fraction of one.

"That's just a matter of habit," replied his wife. "Why aren't they just as good for breakfast as for supper?"

Jack didn't reply, but reached for his paper.

"This isn't my paper," he growled. "I'll report that carrier, if he doesn't leave the paper I order."

"But dear, I got up early on purpose so as to get him to leave the Times instead of the Post. I thought you must get awfully tired of reading the same paper every day."

"I can't find anything in this paper," he said peevishly. "I like to know where things are. Give me some coffee any way."

"I made tea," said his wife sweetly. "You know—"

"Great heavens! Isn't there anything I can eat? What kind of meal do you call this, a pink tea or a missionary supper?"

"But dear, I thought I'd have everything different. You said—"

"I must be going," interrupted Jack abruptly. "Where's my hat?"

"I put it in the laundry, and I brought down your last year's soft felt to wear instead of your derby."

"You certainly are off your head," said Jack.

"I had breakfast late, too, so you wouldn't have to take the same car and see the same people," went on his wife without noticing his remark.

Jack made an exclamation. "I'll be late at the office."

"That'll make things a little different there too."

"You bet it will," said Jack glumly. "When you are going to pull off this trick on me again, let me know, won't you?"

"But I was afraid you must be getting terribly tired of having everything the same way all the time. You said people missed a lot by having set habits, and that variety was the spice of life."

"Some spices are irritants," said Jack, as he went out and slammed the door.

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Mitchell Kirk

IF we were planting a young tree today, we would not be indifferent to the soil, sunshine and moisture and say, "When a tree has reached full maturity I'll give it all the best conditions possible for growth to keep it a strong and healthy tree." No. We would know that it would never live to reach that maturity if left under those conditions. We have two phases which we see in human life. First, the child brought up without any knowledge of food as related to the growth of the body. If of a naturally strong, combative, persistent type, he will struggle on to manhood; and as he grows to full maturity, if he awakens, or someone else does for him, he will begin to ask about foods, right living, exercise and everything else which will help him to retain the mental and physical vigor to a good degree. And this same persistence which he (or she) exercised in youth will help him now, and he may gain and live to man's allotted years. Second, the other phase is where, precisely the same condition exists, except he is not naturally of the strong, persistent type, and at middle life is a weak, diseased man (or woman) too weak to take up the fight for proper foods and right living, which someone has just told him of or he has discovered for himself, and the struggle is too great and he passes on.

Just to live does not mean very much in the world. Sickness is still and man has paid so little attention to the building of his own wonderful body—he has to his horses, cows, pigs, etc., that is the narrow sphere in which he has lived; it has not been conducive to his health.

What is health? Bounding out of bed every morning at forty, fifty or sixty years of age as when thirty, and feeling that you can hardly wait for the work of the day to begin. Do you feel this way? If so, you have been living somewhere near right. The greatest joy in this world is good wholesome work. Many women have never done a healthful active day's work in their lives, and then wonder why they are nervous, can't sleep, time drags heavily on their hands, and a thousand other imaginary ills. Cure them all with right thinking and right living, which covers everything in foods, and which will build and repair the wasted tissues of the body every day. To do this and be well one does not have to be a faddist and live on this or that peculiar sort of food. Nature has generously provided a variety, but it is for man to understand and use it to the best advantage.

Half the questions and letters I receive ask for diet or foods for indigestion. I believe that physiology or even knowledge of the digestive organs, simply and correctly taught to our children would now and in after life be quite as valuable as any of the studies prominent in our school curriculum.

The foods should be well cooked, properly combined and daintily served.

The man working out of doors must eat more than an office man. He must eat food which will build and repair the muscle. If the office man eats food difficult of digestion he will pay the penalty. If he eats a heavy luncheon and returns to his desk for work, again he pays the penalty both physically and mentally.

This sort of feeding kills off the weak, ruins the middle and makes an invalid of the strong. Foods of children and older people have much in common, as in both instances we are especially concerned in the building of the body. Select a diet simple in foods and combinations; one that will give the present amount of energy with the smallest amount of effort. Otherwise, there will be what is called sickness. To be perfectly clear, any unused food in the body is a surplus. We have no place to store it. "The body finds for itself foods some mischief sure to do." It becomes a deposit which in due time causes colds, rheumatism and a hundred other ills.

Nourish and keep alive the activities and do not prod them with any stimulants. If you masticate your

LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL, GLOSSY HAIR, NO DANDRUFF—25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Hair Coming Out?—If Dry, Brittle, Thin or Your Scalp Itches and is Full of Dandruff—Use "Danderine." Grows New Hair.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of Dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes, but really new hair—growing all over the scalp. A little Danderine will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.

food well, eat raw cabbage, celery, radishes, lettuce and greens—they are fine cleansers to the system.

One of the most common difficulties of older and elderly people is gas in digestion. If the teeth are not quite as good, they eat too many soft foods, which are not mixed with the saliva and enter the stomach unprepared and trouble begins.

After we have reached or passed full maturity, to make the remainder of our life happy and satisfying, we should eat and live to repair the body worn out by the day's work. If you do not work you will continually think of yourself and grow old.

Never make radical changes. Continue tea and coffee if you have used them in moderation. Do not eat pork nor any of the so-called rich foods. If meats are used they should be broiled, baked or boiled and served without rich sauces; or, if the fat can be entirely removed, well and good. Rice is a better starchy food than potatoes, except baked ones. With some elderly people four or five light meals are better than three.

The substantial meal is better taken in the middle of the day; such foods as rice, simple salads broiled or chopped meat, baked potatoes, boiled rice, vegetable purées, sponge cake, Bavarian creams and fruit juices such as pineapple and grape.

Several years ago midday meals were planned under my supervision for four elderly women, all over seventy years of age. As they thrived on these menus, which were most carefully planned especially for them, I will give you one or two of these for the benefit of those who may have an elderly father or mother in their home.

Evening Meal Suggestion.

Graham or corn meal, mush and milk.
Cream toasts, poached eggs.
Yolks of hard-boiled eggs over cream toast.
Meringue, Twelve A. M.
Vegetable soup, crouton.
Lettuce salad, French dressing (made with lemon juice and oil).
Lamb chops, baked potatoes.
Princess tapioca, tea.
Brown bread and butter.

The KITCHEN CABINET

THE thing that goes the farthest toward making life worth while.

That costs the least and does the most, is just a pleasant smile.

WHAT TO EAT.

He is of all men miserable who enjoys not his food.

Spanish Stew.—Buy beef ribs at the price your butcher insists on asking; put them, after a thorough wiping, into a pot with cold water, a peeled and sliced onion and a half can of tomatoes, a red pepper well minced, and five whole cloves. Simmer gently for three hours, setting on the back part of the range. Thicken with browned flour and serve. Three pounds of beef ribs is sufficient for a family of six.

A little chopped ham left from dinner, added to a white sauce and used on creamed potatoes, makes a very appetizing dish.

Beans and Bacon.—Soak a pint of beans over night and cook in fresh water until tender the next morning. Just before serving add a seasoning of cream, salt and pepper and serve hot. Bacon cut in dice and fried; the beans added and cooked five minutes, is also a nice way to serve them.

Potato Croquettes.—Take a cup and a half of mashed potatoes and mix with a tablespoonful of butter and the yolk of an egg. Season with salt and pepper and milk to moisten. Mold into croquettes, make a hole in each and stuff with a little green pepper which has been fried in butter. Dip the croquette in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Banana Pie.—Fill a dish with alternate layers of sliced bananas and bread crumbs, beginning with the crumbs and ending with the banana. Pour in rich milk enough to fill the spaces, dot with bits of butter and bake twenty minutes.

MACARONI AND TOAST.

Macaroni and toast make a good combination. The former is similar in composition to whole wheat bread, while toast provides the opportunity for chewing, which is so important a bearing upon digestion. Macaroni contains more protein than bread, and does not therefore require the addition of cheese or of meat, and toast is deficient in protein but furnishes ample carbohydrate. It is always desirable to have in the meal a food that induces thorough mastication. This is not, however, advised for an invalid. Toast and milk or toast and eggs (whipped or poached) would be more easily digested and furnish the same nutriment.

The Evening Chit-Chat BY RUTH CAMERON

A NEW COMMANDMENT.

THERE are many well-to-do and wealthy people in this country who don't bother much with the ordinary ten commandments but appear to take a certain sentence in the Bible for their special command, and that sentence is, "To him that hath shall be given."

One of the families in our neighborhood is very well-to-do and owns a beautiful touring car. Their neighbors on one side are also well-to-do and certainly could own an automobile if they wished. Their neighbors on the other side are lovely people but not at all well off. The people with the touring car appear to be on equally friendly terms with both families and yet five times out of six if they take anyone with them in the car it is the people who can afford to own or hire a machine for themselves.

Isn't it queer? And yet you will see this same tendency repeated again and again.

"Really we haven't taken out our car for a week," I heard a wealthy woman say the other day. "Oh yes, I know it's lovely weather, it isn't that, but the Crowell's insisted that we come in their car so we didn't use our own."

"To him that hath shall be given."

Think how much it would have meant to some of the automobileless friends of both of these families to have been taken out into the country in these lovely autumn days.

Again some rich people who were going to an athletic event proudly displayed passes some influential friend had given them. It is a queer little quirk in human nature by the way that the average man is crazy about a pass of any kind. It doesn't matter if he is a millionaire and the pass is worth only a quarter, he is as elated as a child to obtain it. I suppose because rich or poor we all feel that we have fooled the fates when we get something for nothing. But to return to my theme, I happen to know that the influential friend knew half a dozen people—I wasn't one of them—who were wild to attend that event and couldn't afford to buy tickets.

A rich old woman whose only relatives were two families of cousins died the other day. One of the families was already wealthy, the other poor. Of course you know what happened. She left the bulk of her wealth to the family that was already wealthy, and bequeathed a few keep-sakes to those to whom a little of her money would have meant so much. And yet she had been on equally friendly terms with both families.

It's a very queer old world, isn't it?

I don't think if we were wealthy we'd do the same, do you?

Still you never can tell till you try.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man of 20. Have been going with a young lady about my age about once a month. (1) I cannot tell whether she loves me any more today than the first day I met her. I feel that I love her enough to marry her. (2) What would be a suitable birthday gift for her in some kind of jewelry? (3) How can I tell if she loves me? She says she does, but is it always in a joking manner. She is the only child in her family and her father and mother idolize her and do not want her to marry.

DISHEARTENED.

(1)—Ask her to marry you and you will soon know how much she loves you. (2)—Do not give her jewelry unless you are engaged to marry her. Books, flowers, candy are about the only acceptable gifts to a young woman friend. (3)—Your question is answered in No. 1.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—If a young man whom I love and who is in another city, writes very affectionate letters to me, is it proper for me to answer them in the same manner? (2)—How many times a week ought a boy write to a girl if he loves her? (3)—I am 17 and he is 18. Are we too young to be in love? (4)—I would be wrong for me to kiss him after he has returned from a three months' visit? (5)—Should a boy always ask a girl if he wants to take her anywhere or should she tell him where she wants to go? (7)—Is it a girl's duty to keep away from other fellows when she is in love with a boy but not engaged to him? (1)—Do not write anything that you would not want read aloud to a roomful of people. That is always a good rule in writing any kind of a letter to anybody. You can be friendly and discreet at the same time. (2)—There is no "ought to" in writing love letters. He'll write them as often as he can. (3)—Neither of you is really in love yet. (4)—If you kiss him when you are not engaged to him, he will have a right to think that you hold your kisses cheap. (5)—No. (6)—She must wait for him to invite her. (7)—It would be very unwise to give up all your boy friends in such a case.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been keeping steady company with a young man of 22. I am 19. When not in his company I think a great deal of him and otherwise not. Please advise me what to do. He is jealous of me and makes terrible threats. As there has been an engagement between us should the ring be given back? BLUE EYES.

Keep away from him if you don't like to be with him. You will never be happy with a jealous man. Don't notice his threats. If an engagement is broken, the ring should be returned.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am a girl of 19. I have been in this city nearly five months, and have no friends. I should like to correspond with some nice young men in some other city. I don't know anyone. How can I start a correspondence? ORPHAN.

Join a young people's class in a church and be so pleasant and sweet to everybody that they'll want to invite you to be good friends with them. You might join a dancing class or go to a gymnasium. Just get a start and then it will depend upon yourself how your friendship widens. You must go half way, you know.

I cannot advise you to correspond with any young man you do not know. Such things never turn out well, so don't attempt it, my dear little girl.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Handy Lists.

On inside of my cupboard door I have two lists, on each of which I have a large card. One is a list of all groceries, vegetables and fruits. The other is a list of meats, each written under its own heading of roasts, chops, steaks, breakfast meats, poultry, fish; also eggs and butter.

When in doubt as to what to order I consult my list; am not likely to have the same meat in too quick succession, as there is a variety to choose from.

When ordering groceries I write down on a slip of paper articles needed.

By consulting my lists I never forget anything that should be ordered.

Fruit Butters.

Quince Butter—One-third part quinces, one-third part apples, one-third part pears. Peel quinces, apples and pears and put through food chopper, add enough water to cover, boil until tender, then add sugar to taste. Boil three hours.

Old-Fashioned Apple Butter.

Apples are cheap now and this is the time to make apple butter. This recipe requires no sugar. Boil down a kettleful of cider to two-thirds the original quantity. Pare, cut and core quince apples and put as many in the cider as it will cover. Boil slowly, stirring often, and when apples are tender, take them out with a skimmer, draining well against sides of kettle. Put in another supply of apples, as many as the cider will hold, and stew them soft. Take from fire, pour entire contents of kettle into tub or large crocks with the first lot of apples; cover, let stand 12 hours. Return to kettle and boil down, stirring constantly until mass is of the consistency of soft soap and brown in color. Spice to taste. Keep in stone jars in cool place.

The Table.

Dinner Dish—One and one-half pounds round steak pounded and placed in bottom of roaster with little pieces of butter, salt and pepper. Then slice enough potatoes for the meal and place on top of steak with salt and pepper. Then add enough onions for the meal, sliced on top of potatoes, with salt and pepper, small pieces of butter and a little water. Put on cover, bake in moderate oven 1 1/2 hours. Sometimes I use plain boiling beef ground instead of steak. Either way it is economical and delicious. Can be easily prepared for a larger family. This recipe is sufficient for three.

To Embroider Bow-Knots.

Nothing in embroidery is prettier than bow-knots when properly worked, but unless the proper slant is given to the stitches, the effect will be spoiled.

To find the proper slant, take a tape measure and twist or tie it to correspond with the loops in the ribbons. The lines which indicate the correct slant for stitches in the embroidered bow-knot.

Things Worth Knowing.

To make union suits larger for growing children, take a piece of flannel (flannelette will do) as long as to go around waist of union suit and about three to five inches wide; cut suit off at waist line, sew in the strip, overcast neatly and suit is plenty large again. The trouble is that the children soon outgrow it in the length of the waist.

To find the proper slant, take a tape measure and twist or tie it to correspond with the loops in the ribbons. The lines which indicate the correct slant for stitches in the embroidered bow-knot.

Things Worth Knowing.

To make union suits larger for growing children, take a piece of flannel (flannelette will do) as long as to go around waist of union suit and about three to five inches wide; cut suit off at waist line, sew in the strip, overcast neatly and suit is plenty large again. The trouble is that the children soon outgrow it in the length of the waist.

To Embroider Bow-Knots.

Nothing in embroidery is prettier than bow-knots when properly worked, but unless the proper slant is given to the stitches, the effect will be spoiled.

Want to Feel Young?

It's Olive Tablets For You!

Beware of the habit of constipation. It develops from just a few constipated days, especially in Old People, unless you take yourself in hand.

Coax the jaded bowel muscles back to normal action with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Don't force them to unnatural action with severe medicines or by merely flushing out the intestines.

Dr. Edwards believes in gentleness, persistence and Nature's assistance, with nasty sickening cathartics. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets oil the bowels; their action is gentle, yet positive. There is never any pain or griping when Olive Tablets are used. Just the kind of treatment old persons should have.

Take Olive Tablets mixed with olive oil and have no trouble with your bowels or stomach.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, Ohio.

MAKES APPOINTMENT OF VISITING NURSE

Council Names Miss Agnes C. Anderson of Milwaukee For New City Office—Revokes License.

On the recommendation of Dr. M. A. Cunningham, Chairman, and the Rev. W. A. Johnson, Secretary of the Janesville Anti-Tuberculosis Association, the City Council yesterday afternoon appointed Miss Agnes C. Anderson of Milwaukee to the position of visiting nurse. Miss Anderson presented bonds for $1,000, which were signed by Dr. Wayne A. Mun and H. L. McNamara, and these were accepted and placed on file. Miss Anderson comes to this city with excellent testimonials of capability for her new position and will enter upon it at once. She will visit those suffering with tuberculosis, give them instructions for the treatment of the disease and the prevention of contagion. Another important duty will be the medical inspection of school children, followed by reports to the parents of those in need of particular attention. She will also give as much of her time to the poor of the city as is possible.

Acting on the complaint of Chief of Police George Appleby, filed with the Clerk on November 8, the Council declared the license of Richard F. Finley revoked, it having been proved to their satisfaction that the latter had violated the ordinance prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquor to minors. The defendant did not appear before the council. His saloon will be closed at once.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES.

WHY WHO'S WHO.

(By Howard L. Rahn.)

It is a great thing to be a Nestor. For the benefit of those who do not know what a Nestor is we will state it is not a breakfast food or a new style of corset, but refers to a wise and aged counselor who is able to shed his thoughts in a lucid manner.

The Nestor of southern journalism is Marse Henri Watterson of the Louisville Courier-Journal. Marse Henri began Nestoring on a weekly paper soon after returning from the Civil War without any visible means of support except his head and a stub pen.

Neither of these articles has ever failed him since, and at times he uses both with a blue violon accent which is highly disconcerting to the target. Mr. Watterson does not advise anybody to become a Nestor unless he is in good standing at the first National bank. He knows what it is to be short-changed out of cord wood in payment of subscription, and in his youthful days he had to subsist upon promises to pay and roller composition. For twenty years after the war he wrestled with the delinquent subscriber until his knee joints cracked, between three fighting for free trade in everything but southern products. He says "If he had it to do over again he would choose some occupation in which a Nestor had nothing to do but nest."

Col. Watterson is a kind-hearted, state-footed Jeffersonian Democrat. He has read all of Emerson's works, which shows what the human mind will stand when hard pressed. He was a great admirer of Jefferson until he discovered that the latter believed in a protective tariff, when he switched to Andrew Jackson and sided with Jefferson and all his works be found a set of encyclopedias.

Col. Watterson does not set type or look the cylinder press or fold papers as of yore, but puts in his time writing editorials that have to be read with smoked glasses. When he becomes incensed, which is several times a week, he can throw out an editorial which will burn large holes in the recipient. One sight of William Jennings Bryan will cause him to sizzle in all the colors of the alphabet.

Marse Henri is not a mere citizen of Louisville. He is an institution. Like the Carnegie library or the water works plant, he is a pipe old flower of southern civility, pugnacious, yet kindly. Bitter in his enemies but soft-hearted as a child. He is the last Nestor Louisville will have for some time and it should make the most of him while he lasts.

HAVE POSTPONED THE MEETING ON FRIDAY

Heavy Weight On the Stomach

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Remove It and All Other Forms of Indigestion Quickly.

That awful feeling as though there were a heavy weight on your stomach as though you had swallowed an enormous lump of lead—is caused by the failure of your stomach to thoroughly digest your foods. You may have eaten too fast or too much. Your stomach may be over-worked and tired out. It is too weak to produce enough of the digestive juices necessary to take proper care of the food. Gases form and cause all sorts of agony. The stomach demands more pepsin, hydrochloric acid and other digestive agents which it is unable to secrete.

Medicines are not only worthless in cases of this kind, but are actually injurious to the whole system. It is sheer lunacy to pour a lot of vile stuff into the stomach—drugs that have no digestive power whatever.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain ingredients that not only bring quick relief to indigestion sufferers, but actually digest the food for the stomach. One of these little magic tablets taken after each meal will rest the stomach, revitalize the secretory glands, strengthen the muscular walls, tone up the entire digestive system.

No home should be without Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets constantly on hand. They stop all forms of indigestion, such as sour stomach, belchings, heartburn, dizziness, burning sensation, brash, etc. After a brief course of treatment your appetite improves. You enjoy your food more. You awaken every morning with a happy disposition. Life looks brighter. Your brain becomes clearer and your eyes sparkle with their old time snap and twinkle. You are practically a new person.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by all druggists at 50c a box.

The Lady of the Mount

by FREDERIC S. ISNAM
AUTHOR OF "THE STROLLERS UNDER THE ROSE"
ILLUSTRATIONS BY RAY WATERS
CHAPTER XXXIII.

A man, bearing in his arms the motionless form of a woman, paused later that night in the shadow of a low stone hovel, near the lower gate of the Mount. As he crouched beneath the thatch projecting like the rim of an old hat above him his eyes, eager, fierce, studied the distance he had yet to traverse from the end of the narrow alley, where he had stopped, to the open entrance at the base of the rock to the sands. The goal was not far; but a few moments would have sufficed to reach it; only between him and the point he had so long been striving to attain, an obstacle, or group of obstacles, intervened. Before a bonfire of wreckage of stuff—furniture and household goods—several ragged, dissolute fellows sat with bottles before them, drinking hard and quarreling the while over a number of glittering gems, gold snuffboxes and trinkets of all kinds.

"This bit of ivory for the white stone!"

"Add the brooch!"

"Not!! Look at the picture! Her ladyship, perhaps?"

"They have not found her?"

"No; for all the searching! But she is somewhere; can't have escaped from the Mount. And when the drabs and trulls lay hands on her!"

"Ay, when!" casting the dice.

The man, peering from the alley, hesitated no longer; behind sounded the footsteps of others, and gathering his burden more firmly, he strode boldly forth toward the group and the gate. At his approach, their talk—a jargon of "thieves' Latin" that smacked more of the cabarets of Paris than those of the coast—momentarily ceased; beneath lowering brows, they stared hard.

"What have you there, comrade?" said one.

"Look and see!" answered the man in a rough tone.

"Poor booty! A woman!" quoted another with a harsh laugh. "You're easily pleased. As if wenches were not plentiful enough on other occasions, without wasting time on a night like this, when diamonds and gold are to be had for the searching!"

"And silver plates and watches and rare liquors!" cried a third in knaves' argot. "Every one, however, to his taste. An you prefer a light-of-love to light such as these have," juggling with the gems, "you but stamp yourself a fool."

"You're welcome to your opinion, my friend!" The man with the burden spoke brusquely. "Good night!"

"Stay; why such haste? You seem not a bad fellow. Set the wench down. We'll have sight of her, and, perhaps, with coarse expletives, 'if she's a pretty face, and a taste for this fiery liquor the old monks laid down, we'll find a gewgaw or two to her liking!'"

But the man made no answer; was hand, white and small, hanging limply. "What's this? More jewels?" His exclamation was caught up by the others. "Not so fast, comrade! This puts a different face to the matter. Set down the booty, and, springing to his feet, 'we'll see what it's worth.' 'I'll not stop!' The man looked at him steadily. 'On the Mount is, or should be, plenty for all! Go seek for yourself!'"

"Fardi!" softly. "Here's one dares speak his mind!"

"I speak plainly," in a tone of authority, "and you would do well to heed!"

"Perhaps," interposing. "What say you, comrades?"

Evil smiles illumined evil faces; they, who had just been on the point of blows among themselves, now regarded one another with common understanding. One weighed tentatively that delicate weapon, a spoon; a second stroked his halberd, as liking to feel the smoothness of the shaft, while a third reached for a gleaming "Folard's Partizan." And in the glare of the fire every implement showed sign it had been used that night. The point of the spoon was as steel crusted over; the ax of the halberd might have come from a butcher's; the blade of the "Partizan" resembled a great leaf at autumn-time. This last hovered perilously near the unconscious burden; had the man made a movement to resist, would have struck; but the black eyes, only, combated—held the blood-shot ones. Though not for long; again the weapon seemed about to dart forth; the man about to hurl himself and his burden desperately aside, when, from above, came the sound of hoarse laughter and singing, and simultaneously a number of peasants, Bretons by their dress, burst into view.

"Eh, cockatoo, what now?"

Many of these new-comers were hurt; few free from cuts; but none thought of stanching their wounds. Their principal concern seemed for articles they carried—heavy, light, valuable, paitry—spoils from the high. Two staggered beneath a great chest stamped with the arms of the Mount and its motto, and appeared anxious to hurry—perchance toward the forest on the shore where they might bury their treasure. Others had in their arms imposing pieces of silver; vases and a massive soutout de table that had once belonged to the Cardinal Dubois. A woman, gaunt, toothless, wore a voluminous bonnet a l'Argus, left at the Mount by one of the ladies of the court; and waved before her a fan, set with jewels. She it was who called out:

"Eh, cockatoo!" shrilly. "Who would you be killing?"

"A selfish fellow that refuses to share!" answered he of the halberd, as if little pleased at the interruption.

"Refuses to share, does he?" she repeated, and, swaggering down, peered forward; only to start back. "The Black Seigneur!"

"The Black Seigneur!"

Those who accompanied her—a rough rabble from field and forest—gazed, not without surprise, or uncouth admiration, at one whose name and fame were well known on that northern coast; but these evidences of rough approval were not shared by the alien rogues. On my lady's finger the gem sparkled; held their eyes like a lure. Black Seigneur, or not, they muttered sullenly, what knew they of her he had with him; whose hand was not that of cinder-wench or scullery maid? Let them look at her face! She might be a great lady—she might be the Governor's daughter herself!

"The Governor's daughter!" All, alike, caught at the word.

"And if she were!" fiercely the Black Seigneur confronted them.

While, hesitating, they sought for a reply, quickly he went on. Who had a better right to her? The Black Seigneur! The Lady Elise! Harshly he laughed. Was it not fair spoil? His Excellency's enemy; his Excellency's daughter. Did they think treasure sweeter than revenge? Let them try to rob him of it! As for the ring? Contemptuously he took it from my lady's hand; threw it among them.

A few scrambled, others were still for finishing the tragedy then. The people versus the lords and their spawn. "Kill at once!" the injunction had gone forth from Paris.

As he spoke, one of the fiercest put out his hand; touched my lady, when the fingers of the Black Seigneur gripped hard his throat; hurled him so violently back, he lay still. Companions sprang to his aid; certain of the peasants interfered.

"Let him alone!"

"He speaks fair!"

"Bah! Tonight all are equal."

"Your Black Seigneur is no better than others!"

"You lie!" In a high tone the woman with the great lady's hat broke in. "At them, my chickens! Beat well these Paris rogues, who come only for the picking!"

"Yes; beat them well!"

But the runagates of the great city were not of a kind to submit lightly; curses and blows were exchanged; knives gleamed and swords flashed. Amid a scene of confusion, the cause of it stayed not to witness the outcome; running down the sloping way, soon found himself on the sands; then keeping to the shadows, passed around the corner of the wall.

Here, for the time concealed, was he safe; none followed, and, leaning against the damp blocks of masonry, breathing hard, as a man weak from fatigue, loss of blood, he sought to recover his strength. It returned only too slowly; the passing lassitude annoyed him; for the moment he forgot he had but recently come from the dungeon and the hardships that, sap elasticity and vigor. He was impatient to move on; looked at my lady—and a sudden fear smote him! How white she appeared! Had she—His hand trembled at her heart; a blank dismay overcame him; then joy—At that instant he thought not of the guilt between them; was conscious only he held her—slender, beautiful—in his arms; that she seemed all his own, with her breath on his cheek, her soft lips so close. Above sounded the madness of the night; the crackling of flames; the interperate voices! In the angle of the will, with darkness a blanket around them, he pushed back the hair from her clear brow, bent over, closer—suddenly straightened.

"Fardi!" he muttered, a flush on his face. "Am I, then, like the others, pillagers, thieves?"

Several moments he yet stood, breathing deep; then, starting away, set himself to the task of crossing the vast stretch of beach between the Mount and the distant lights of a ship.

The sandy plain had never seemed so interminable; before him, his shadow and that of my lady danced ever illuivately away; behind, the great rock gave forth a hundred shooting flames, while, as emblematic of the demolition of so much that was beautiful, higher than saint with helpless sword on cathedral-top, a cloud of smoke belched up; waved eddies like a monstrous funeral plume. A symbol, it seemed to fill the sky; to move and nod and flaunt its ominous blackness from this majestic outpost of the land. Walking in a vivid crimson glow, the Black Seigneur gazed only ahead, where none, on that monotonous desert, the rim of the sea on a sudden obtruded. As he advanced, sparkles red as rubies—laughing lights—leaped in the air; at the same time a sizzling murmur broke upon the stillness.

Toward those leaping bright points and the source of that deep-sounding cadence, the young man stumbled forward more rapidly, less cautiously, also, it may be; for while he was yet some distance from the water's rim, his feet fell on sand that gave way beneath them. He would have sprung back, but felt himself sinking; strove to get out, only to settle the deeper! The edge of the lse, with safety beyond, well he could see, where the satin-like smoothness of the treacherous slough merged into a welcome silk-like shimmering of the trustworthiness sands. That verge, however, was remote; out of reach of effort of his to attain; his very endeavors caused him to become the more firmly imbedded. Had he cast my lady aside, possibly could he have extricated himself; but with her, an additional weight, weighing him down—

Loudly he called out; only the sea answered. Now were the clinging particles at his waist; he lifted my lady higher; clear of them! Once more raised his voice—this time not in vain!

"Mon capitaine! Where are you?"

"Here!"

"We don't see you."

"You won't soon, unless—"

The end of a line struck the sand.

The night had almost passed; its last black hour, like a pall, lay over the sea; where, far from the Mount, a ship swayed and tossed. In the narrow confines of her master's cabin, the faint glimmering of a lamp revealed a man bending over a paper, yellow and worn; the lines so faint and delicate, they seemed almost to escape him!

How strange, after all these years, the sight of your handwriting!—and now, to be writing you! Yet is it meet—to say farewell! For that which you have heard, mon ami, is true. I am going to die. You say, you heard I was not well; I answer what really you heard; the question, mon ami, beneath your words! . . . And, dying, it is well with me. I have wronged no soul on earth—except you, my friend, and you forgive me. . . . I had hoped the years would efface that old memory. You say they have not. . . . It is wise you are going away.

The reader paused; listened to the sea; the moaning and sighing, like voices on the wings of the storm.

You speak in your letter about "trickery"—used to estrange us! Think no more of it. I beg you. What is past, is gone—as I, part of that past, when we were boy and girl together—soon shall be. And come not near the Mount. There can be no meeting for us on earth. I send you my adieu from afar. . . . It is only a shadow that speaks . . . mon ami.

Oysters, and Overy.

By some people a taste for oysters is regarded as a sign of comparative affluence. Fifty years ago, however, oysters were sold in England at 12 cents a dozen, and it was Sam Weller who discovered that "poverty and oysters always go together." The poorer a place is, the greater call there seems to be for oysters," said Sam. "Look here, sir; blessed if I don't think that ven a man's very poor he rushes out of his lodgings and eats oysters in regular desperation."

Let Us Do Our Duty.

Let us do our duty in our shop or our kitchen; in the market, the street, the office, the school, the home, just as faithfully as if we stood in the front rank of some great battle, and knew that victory for mankind depended on our bravery, strength and skill. When we do that, the humblest of us will be serving in that great army which achieves the welfare of the world.—Theodore Parker.

Convincing Testimony

Given by Many Janesville People.

Experiences told by Janesville people.

Those who have had weak kidneys—Who used Doan's Kidney Pills—Who found the remedy effective—Such statements prove merit.

You might doubt an utter stranger. You must believe Janesville people. Here's Janesville proof. Verify it. Read. Investigate. Be convinced. You'll find why Janesville folks believe in Doan's.

Mrs. William Mohr, 310 N. Academy St., Janesville, Wis., says: "About two years ago I had an attack of kidney trouble and at that time I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills at the People's Drug Co. The use of only two boxes cured me. Other members of my family have taken Doan's Kidney Pills with satisfactory results and I therefore know this remedy to be a reliable one. I gladly confirm my former endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills. They permanently rid me of kidney complaint and during the past two years I have had no further need of a kidney medicine."

Druggist Recommends

Vinol for Run-Down People.

If any one person should know the value of medicines it is the druggist who dispenses them and from our experience we want to say, if people in this vicinity only knew the value of Vinol our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil) at this season of the year, we would not be able to supply the demand.

This is because Vinol is a combination of the two most world-famed tonics, namely, the medicinal curative elements of cod's liver without the oil, and iron for the blood.

Vinol tones up the digestive organs, purifies and enriches the blood, promotes healthful sleep and a normal appetite.

Old people, delicate children, run-down, overworked and tired women, should try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

The Bridge of Signs.

Three shabby little children passed down a curving walk toward the rustic bridge that spans the head of one of the lakes of Central park. FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, Nov. 20, 1872.—Epizootic.—The disease increasing. The horse disease continues to increase, each day adding new patients to the already lengthy list of suffering equines. Generally, however, the disease thus far has been exceedingly mild, though horse owners refrain from using their animals, as the least exercise brings on terrible coughing spells which leave the victims in a weak and trembling condition. The omnibuses are all motionless, and travellers must walk between the depots and the hotels. The fire department horses have retired from active service and other horses have been procured to draw the engines. Should the department be called out, circumstances indicate that there is no more safety in one locality than another. The disease is equally distributed throughout the infected district. The first cases seem to be yielding to the remedies employed, and horse owners do not anticipate anything beyond a temporary disablement of their property.

The Steamers: The east side steamer was fully repaired and in working order by half past eight o'clock last night. To assure himself that everything was in readiness for work, Engineer Slightham led his machine hauled across the river, where suction was taken in the race and the machine tested. Later in the evening Engineer Brooks completed repairs on the west side steamer. The trouble with the latter was that the pump which supplies the boiler with water was frozen and could not be made to work. Brooks worked the engine longer than he should have without replenishing his water supply, as he hadn't the heart to abandon a burning building while there was a possibility of quenching the flames. The house provided for the west side steamer is altogether too airy for winter use and it will be impossible to keep the pumps from freezing and disabling the machines, unless the apertures about the front and rear doors are closed.

The Daily Novelette

CHILDHOOD.

Father was reading the paper. Outside the rain fell on just and unjust alike, but in the Krackerdoom sitting-room the sound of grandfather's pipe was the only indication of the raging storm.

"Daddy, dear," said little Algernon, "how is it that sometimes the rain comes down so hard and then again it goes every which way and across?"

"Atmospheric politics," replied Mr. Krackerdoom, shortly. For father was reading the paper.

"Daddy, dear," said little Algernon presently, "how is it that it rains down instead of up?"

When Mrs. Krackerdoom came home she wondered vaguely what made little Algernon all black and blue.
